PRES. MOODY TAKES TEXT FROM PSALMS FOR BACCALAUREATE

Says House of Jehovah Includes all the Universe.

APPRECIATION OF GOD IS NO MYSTERY

President Paul D. Moody delivered the Baccalaureate sermon to the Class of 1929, in the Mead Memorial Chapel, Sunday morning, June 16. He took as his text the fourth verse of the twenty-seventh psalm which reads: "One thing have I asked of Jehavah, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the House of Jehovah all the days of my life."

"The meaning of the psalmist, " said Dr. Moody, "is no silly purile wish to stay all of the time in the House of God, tabernacle or temple or whatever it may have been. It was rather that he might never loose that sense of the whole earth being the house of God, the sense of being in Gods presence. To such a man—the whole universe is the House of God."

Dr. Moody went on to point out the reasons why the psalmist desired to stay in the House of God " all the days of his life" as the "secrets of true living—to behold and to inquire—appreciation and curiosity."

"Appreciation," said President Moody, "is beholding the beauty of the Lord—the sense of beauty in the world. There are many in this world in whom appreciation is lacking. They are like Wordsworth's character; 'A yellow primrose by the river's brim, a yellow primrose was to him and it was nothing more."

In speaking of inquiry Dr. Moody said, "The man or woman without intellectual curiosity is useless, regardless of how much knowledge he possesses. It is not the possession that matters as much as the acquiring."

"This is what education should do for us, quicken our appreciation, quicken our curiosity, until living becomes the most facinating thing in the world. If education has not done this for us it has not been real education."

President Moody concluded, "To behold the beauty of the Lord and to inquire in His temple is to see the universe in a new light—to be ever on the alert against those subtle influences that harden and coarsen us, and at the same time to keep that attitude toward God, of reverence and expectation which we call prayer."

McCullough Cup Won by 1909

The McCullough Reunion Cup awarded annually by the Trustees of the College to that class, among the reunion groups, that returns the largest percentage of living members to the Commencement exercises was won this year by the Class of 1909. Twenty of the forty-six living members of this class were registered at the Alumni headquarters. The Reunion Dinner of the Class of 1909 was held at the Bristol Inn on Saturday.

Catlin and Kellogg Prizes are Awarded

Robert W. Meader '29 receives the George H. Catlin classical prize for excellence in both Latin and Greek, according to recent announcement from the office of the Dean. Mary G. Henseler '31 of West New York, N. J. and Dorothy S. Johnson '31 of Worcester, Mass., are awarded the Kellogg Latin-English prize for the two best papers in Horace.

To the Men—Don't forget Middlebury Night, Thursday evening, September 26. Start the year off with the right spirit. All the Freshmen will be there. Here's your chance to look over the new class.

Annual President's Reception Held Monday

The Prsident's reception took place Monday evening at three South street, before the Senior Ball. Mr. and Mrs. Moody were assisted in receiving by Dr. James Simpson of Edinburgh—the Commencement speaker, Mr. and Mrs. Percival Wilds, Professor and Mrs. J. Moreno-Lacalle, and Professor and Mrs. Julius Kingsley. Guests were introduced by Witherell '30 and Zaremba '30, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Maude O. Mason and Mrs. Raymond Barney, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Goodreds, Coach and Mrs. Ben Beck, Professor and Mrs. Russell Sholes, Mr. Carlus Griffin, Professor Raymond Barney, and Mr. John Haller.

About two hundred guests were present including faculty, students and their families, alumni, and townspeople.

ALPHA SIGS GAIN INTRAMURAL TROPHY

K. D. R. Is Second, D. K. E. Third, and B. K. is Fourth.

The "Thophy of Thophies", coveted intramural cup awarded yearly to the intramural group totaling most points in intramural athletics, has been won this year by the Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity. The Alpha Sigs ammassed the grand total of 615 points, Kappa Delta Rho 575, pressed closely by Delta Kappa Epsilon with 570. Interest in Intramural Athletics is growing rapidly, as shown by increased entries in all events. At least seventy-five per cent of the men enrolled in college are taking advantage of the activities presented by the Department of Intramurals.

Basketball, as usual, presented the keenest competition of the year, being won by Alpha Sigma Phi. There was so little difference in strength between the first four teams of the league, that the result was a tossup 'till the end. Even the weaker teams showed improvement, and won from first division clubs later in the season.

Baseball, run as an elimination tournament, again piled up points for the Alpha Sigs. After several close games, A. S. P. waloped the Dekes badly in the final play-off. It is hoped that the new ball field will be ready for use next spring in order that intramural teams may play a better schedule.

CHARLES M. SWIFT DIES AT HIS HOME

Was Middlebury Trustee For Past Sixteen Years.

A very dstinct loss was suffered by Middlebury College in the death of Charles May Swift of Ferrisburg, Vermont, and New York City, Trustee of Middlebury College. Mr. Swift died on his yacht at Grosse Point, Lake Champlain, and was buried in Middlebury on Sunday afternoon, June 23. Mr. Swift was brought to his summer estate on Lake Champlain about two weeks ago from New York City where he had been ill for more than two months.

Mr. Swift was the son of George Sedgewick and Louise (May) Swift. He was born in Middlebury on March 19, 1854. He went, with his family, to Detroit, Michigan, where he graduated from the Detroit High School in 1870. After studying in a law office in that city he was admitted to the bar in 1877 and practiced law until 1893. At this point he became interested in business entrprise, becoming connected with the building of Electrical Transportation lines in Michigan and the Phillipines. He returned to Vermont after his

YEAR'S FINAL PLAYS GIVEN SAT. EVENING

Wig and Pen Presents "The Man Who Married A Dumb Wife."

A very successful dramatic season was brought to a close of Friday and Saturday evenings at the Playhouse with the production by the members of the Wig and Pen, under the able direction of Mr. V. S. Goodreds, of "The Valient" a play in one act by Holworthy Hall and "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" a play in two acts by Anatole France.

"The Valient" a one act tradgedy by Holworthy Hall was presented first on both evenings. This is an intensely serious play dealing with the attempt of a condemmed murderer to conceal his disgrace from a widowed mother and a sister. He does this, tells them that their son and brother dies as a hero and goes to his death unafraid, with Shakespeare's famous line "The valient never taste of death but once on his lips.

The cast was the same as that which presented it earlier in the year with the exception of Laurence Wilson '30 who played the part of Warden Holt. Miss Helena Dundas played the part of the sister with a wistful appeal that left few dry eyes at the final curtain and this with a college audience is no mean feat. Laurence Wilson '30 and Clarence Hazen '31 played the parts of the warden and the priest with an intelli-

155 ARE AWARDED DEGREES IN COURSE

Largest Class to Graduate in History of Middlebury.

The largest graduating class in the history of the College received degrees in Arts and Sciences at the Commencement exercises held in the Congregational Church on Monday, June 17th, 1929. One hundred and fifty-five degrees in course were conferred by President Paul D. Moody upon the largest graduating class in Middlebury's 129 years of existence.

Seven honorary degrees were conferred by President Moody upon distinguished friends of Middlebury in recognition of outstanding achievement in various positions. The following were awarded Honorary degrees:

Miss Alberta Louise Beeman, a teacher in the St. Albans High school for the past 35 years, the degree of Master of Arts.

Samuel James Preston a graduate of Middlebury College in the class of 1882. Principal, Grammar school, Mamaroneck, New York 1882-89; High school, 1889-1902. City Superintendant, Plattsburg, 1902-1905. State Lecturer in New York State Educational Department, 1906-1910. District Superintendant, Westchester County, 1912-to date. Mr. Preston has made many notable contributions to educational papers and current magazines on pedagogical problems. He was awarded the degree of Master of Pedagogy.

Audley Janes Bliss of the Class of 1898, Middlebury College. After graduating from Middlebury, Dr. Bliss went to Drew Theological Seminary and later became a graduate student of Philosophy at New York University. He was ordained in the year 1903. Dr. Bliss has served in several churches in New Jersey and is now pastor at Phillipsburg, New Jersey where he has served since 1927. He was awarded the degree of Doctor of Divinity.

Albert George Butzer, born in Buffalo, New York 1893. Graduated from Northwestern College, Naperville, Ill. Chaplain in the United States Army—1918. Degree of B. D. from Union

Saulnier, Hodges, Jackson, Permanent Senior Officers

Raymond J. Saulnier, Catherine Hodges, and Thad R. Jackson were elected to the offices of permanent President, Vive-president and Treasurer respectively at a Senior class meeting on Wednesday evening, June 5th.

All of the above have been very active in campus activities during their four years at Middlebury.

No date has been set as yet for the first reunion of the class of 1929 but according to custom that will undoubtedly take place during the Commencement of 1934.

COLLEGE OBSERVES SENIOR CLASS DAY

Traditional Exercises Held On Lower Campus June 15.

The Class Day exercises of the 129th Commencement took place on the lower Campus on Saturday morning, June 15th before a large gathering of alumni and friends of the college. The traditional class day exercises that have always been a very interesting feature of the Senior Week were especially well received this yar.

The Senior Class, the largest in the history of the College, met at the Warner Hemiscycle at 10:00 a. m. Saturday morning where they formed a line to march to the lower campus.

The Seniors were led by the Junior Marshals, Alice E. Guest and Richard Humeston. The "daisy chain" carried by members of the Women's College from the Junior Class was especially well prepared and no small amount of credit is due the Junior girls for their very acceptable contribution to the Class Day exercises.

The Seniors were seated, during the principal part of the program on the grandstand erected in front of Old Chapel.

Carl G. Sorensen, of Plattsburg, New York, as President of the Senior Class welcomed the guests of Middlebury to the Commencement exercises and expressed, to the administration and faculty, the appreciation of the Senior Class for the many advantages that had been offered them during their four years at Middlebury.

RUSHING TO BEGIN EARLY NEXT FALL

Council Changes Date to Prevent Pre-season Activity.

Next fall fraternity rushing in the men's college will begin the first Monday after the opening of classes, according to information received from T. Morrison Hoffnagle '30, new president of the Interfraternity Council. With this new rule the council hopes to lessen the number of infractions of the provision against pre-season rushing, and overcome several other difficulties inherent in the old rushing system.

All freshmen and unaffiliated transfers will be given an opportunity to visit each of the eight fraternities during the first two days, which will be specially set aside for that purpose. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be devoted to conferences between the freshmen and fraternity representatives. Saturday will be pledge day.

The complete new rules as drawn up by the Interfraternity Council are as follows:

1. The rushing period shall open the first Monday after classes begin and shall extend through the following Friday. Saturday shall be pledge day.

2. The first two days, Monday and Tuesday, between seven p. m. and eleven p. m. shall be divided into eight

DR. JAMES SIMPSON GIVES ADDRESS ON COMMENCEMENT DAY

Eminent Scotch Scholar Treats Theological Side of Science.

SAYS ENERGY ONLY INFINITE REALITY

A Too Highly Developed Science Will Be A Menace.

Dr. James Y. Simpson of the University of Edinburgh delivered the address at the 129th annual commencement of Middlebury College held at the Congregational Church Monday morning, June 17. Dr. Simpson devoted the major portion of his address to a discussion of reality and its significence.

In the opening part of his discussion Dr. Simpson called attention to the fact that within the hands and brain of man lies the power to assist God in the progress of living energy toward the ultimate. Speaking along this trend he said, "In our common humanity and the recognition of it, we are much closer to reality than in the artificial frontiers and other appearances that seem to divide us. To live and work for that recognition is something worthwhile".

Dr. Simpson prefaced the body of his speech with the question, "What is reality?". "Today", he said, "we are passing through a reformation of thought as profound as anything that has passed under the same name in the sixteenth century, a characteristic of our age is an attempt to get at the nature of reality, to be done with phrases and dispose of catchwords that mean little in answering our questing."

Science, from observation in all its branches, is showing us that energy "of a source ultimately unknown" is undoubtedly the only infinite reality we can concieve. It is a "dynamic universe" the physicist gives us; but the last nature of that energy, beyond a description of it as positive and negative in complement, he cannot gives us. However, within the evolution of our own universe and planet, "he has no doubt of progress over the whole", "a measure of positiveness in the story." From that story man emerges, "mental and moral".

"Nationality is a state of mind, a conviction. Rightly conceived, it is a means to an end, the fitting of itself to make a worthier and better contribution to some larger whole or common good. I have seen at close range the failure of militarism and the bankruptcy of the older diplomacy; and I believe with all my heart as the result of a process of experience that the only practical politics, national and international, is Christianity.

"Of put it in another way, that there are three stages in the political and social evolution of man; Nationalism, Internationalism, and Supernatoinalism. We are just at the beginning of the second stage; I often think that there is a very real sense in which the United States is a spiritual concept as society. It gives a working model of a supernational state.

New Chi Psi Lodge Dedicated Sunday

The new Chi Psi Lodge which was completed about the last of April was formerly dedicated on Sunday, June 16th at 4 o'clock. The ceremonies marked the culmination of long years of effort to erect a fraternity building that would make an acceptable addition to Middlebury's campus. The resultant structure, modelled after the oldest college buildings, has far surpassed the hopes of even the most enthusiastic workers.

IN MEMORIAM
CHARLES MAY SWIFT
TRUSTEE AND BENEFACTOR
OF

VACATION.

One of the most important problems that the college student has to face is that which we find involved in the question of what to do with one's vacation. For some of us vacations are pretty much cut and dried. We arrive home, rest a day or two and then step into some sort of work earning and saving as much money as possible in order that we may lighten the financial burden of the college session. Others, I shall not say that they are more fortunate, never enter the wage earning class at such an early stage but only concern themselves with "vacation". There may be intermediate cases but as a general rule the above classifications cover the two large divisions of college men and women.

But the question of whether we work or whether we play is not the vital one involved. The real problem that we must solve is how we are going to work or else, how we are going to play.

Some very successful men have said that the really critical periods of a man's college career come during the vacations that he has left at his disposal, and that, to a very large degree, his success in after life will depend on the manner in which he utilizes that time.

The man who finds that he must work in order to contribute his small share to the payment of college bills will find that his work is serving a double purpose if he enters into some task that while supplying him with the needed funds, will build up a strong body and develop in him a healthy respect for honest labor, even of the humblest sort. A vacation spent in this manner is more than a vaction. It is one of the most valuable courses that one can ever enroll in, a course that is lacking for the great majority, unfortunately, in the regular college curriculum.

As for the student who simply "vacations" his problems are undoubtedly more serious although on the surface they may appear quite simple. The man or woman who lacks the "economic urge" to get out and earn money in order that he or she may return to college is apt to enter into a state of inactivity that is both detrimental physically and completely demoralizing. On the other hand the opportunities that are offered by such a situation are very great. Those students who spend their vacations travelling are especially fortunate as long as they avoid that superficial sort of travelling that simply "covers ground". Those who stay at home should never find time hanging heavily on their hands if there is a good library within reasonable distance.

It is this last point that is probably one of the most significant for both of these classes of students. How many of us complain during college seession when someone asks of a new book, "How did you like it?", that we never have the time to read what we would really like, " . . . we have so much outside reading to do." There is really no excuse for the man or woman who sits about a summer home for two or three months and then returns to college with the same feeble explanations. If we can make nothing else out of these days before us we can turn them into a realy valuable reading period.

The most that we can do, then, with our vacation is to preserve a balance between work and play that will return us to college with a broadened field of empirical knowledge, a keener appreciation of the value of honest toil and a strong body to carry us through the next year.

"THE MAN WHO MARRIED A DUMB WIFE"

egnt understanding and fine appraciation of the continuity of the play. Arthur Pierce '30 and Freddie Lynch '29 playing the jailer and an attendant respectively were entirely in character and helped to create, effectively, the prison background of the scene.

The cast was as follows:

Warden Holt, Laurence Wilson '30; Father Daley, Clarence Hazen '31; Dan, a jailer, Arthur Pierce '30; James Dyke, Raymond Bosworth '29; Wilson, an attendant, F. Ryeburn Lynch '29; Josephine Paris, Helena Dundsa '31.

The second play, "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife", by Anatole France was a success for several reasons. Some of these were the fine acting of the cast, notably Miss Lackie and Mr. Lynch, the unusual set, designed and executed by Kenneth McClelland '31, and the careful and colorful costuming by Miss Eloise White. The story of the man who married a dumb wife who subsequently becomes so voluble that the husband is oblidged to make himself deaf in self defense, is glorious 14th Century slapstick and was throughly enjoyed as such by the audience. An attractive feature of the play was the music. Some old pre-Elizabethan lyricist would have been rewarded in part if he could have seen the manner in which his songs were received. The audience went home humming the infectious "la-dee ra" and that is generally an indication of a good score. Acknowledgement should be made here and now to the help that was cheerfully given with the music by Miss Ruth Cann and Professor Harry G. Owen.

The palm for notable achievement in this play goes to Miss Lackie and to Mr. Lynch who played the parts of the Man and the Dumb (?) wife. Miss Lackie poured forth "full floods of mellifluous speech" with a surprising ease. Mr. Lynch went raving mad with execllent pantomimic realism.

The rest of the cast in this play each and severally gave ample evidence of much ability and able coaching.

The cast of "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" is as follows:

Leonard Botal, F. Ryeburn Lynch; Catherine Botal, Margaret Lackie; Alison, Henrietta Olson; Master Adam Fumee, Laurence Haskins; Giles, E. Parker Calvert; Master Simon Colline, Raymond Bosworth; Jean Maugrer, Grosvenor Crooks; Serafin Delaurier, James Thompson; Mlle. de la Garandiere, Eleanor Benjamin; Mme. de la Bruine, Linnea Wall; Blind Man, George Davis; Attendant, Marion Simmons; Street Criers, Lucy Booth and Elsie Hill.

As a member of the graduating group of the Wig and Pen the writer takes this opportunity to acknowledge our indebtedness to Mr. Goodreds for anything that we have accomplished this year and to express our appreciation of his efforts in our behalf and of the excellent work that he has done, artictically and practically to put Middlebury dramatics in the place that they would rightfully hold among the college dramatic organizations.

He has given us an attractive Playhouse, some excellent equipment, and a lot of solid imformation, but most of all a sincere appreciation of dramatic values and the inspiration to "carry on".

marriage, in 1913, to Jessica Stewart, a daughter of the late Governor Stewart of Vermont, one of the most distinguished Alumni of Middlebury. In 1919 he was elected to the Board of Trustees of Middlebury College where his sound counsel proved indispensible.

Mr. Swift was a generous friend of the College. He established the Swift Essay Prize and the Swift Playwriting Prize as well as making other generous contributions to the general funds of the College.

Equally important was his contribution of time and advice. His unusual clarity of judgement made him an invaluable adviser. His knowledge of the college and of its traditions gave him a very unique place among the friends of Middlebury College.

The Class Prophecy, presented by Raymond Bosworth and Lara Wheaton, pictured Middlebury visited by great calamity. A cyclonic storm such as had never before been witnessed in the history of the world caused the deaths of every last member of the Senior Class. The search for the bodies, as told by the gloomy phrophets revealed some very enlightening facts as the various seniors were recovered in situations that were quite characteristic of their every-day existence.

The history of the Class of 1929 was traced by Frank DeWitt as a continual line of triumphs over adversity. The dependance of the Seniors upon the Class of 1928 and others who very generously accepted second place or worse in all interclass contests, was acknowledged and appreciation extended to these generous souls for their continued favors.

The Class Will was read by Paul Burns who was assisted in its preparation by Elizabeth McDermott. The Class Oration, delivered by R. J. Saulnier concerned the more serious subject of the relationships existing between alumni, undergraduate and those outside of the college generally. Mr. Saulnier called attention to the growing disrespect for "student seriousness" and the misinterpretations that are placed upon "student life". In the treatment of this problem the various factors that serve as mediums between students and "outsiders" were scored as false representations of real college life and an appeal was made for a closer examination of the college student in order to lead to a more appreciative understanding of the American College as an institution of learning.

Miss Gretchen Taylor, the Class Essayist, read a paper on "Fads" in which she called attention to some of the pretty situations that exist in college, such as "cattiness", labelling them as real menaces to the welfare of the school. Miss Taylor's paper was addressed especially to the members of the Senior Class.

The Class Poem was written and presented by Mary Burtis. This was followed by the announcement of Honors by Dean Burt A. Hazeltine.

The Seniors then marched to the lower portion of the Campus where they formed a large circle around the Class Tree that was dedicated by D. Francis Howe.

Long clay pipes, tobacco and matches were then passed to the Seniors as they sat about their tree to smoke the traditional "Senior pipe".

Archer Butler Hulbert, A. B. Marietta College 1895. Studied in Western Reserve, Chicago, Wisconsin, Columbia and Harvard Universities also in London and in Paris. Professor Hulbert has served as a lecturer in many of our large universities, as Columbia and the University of Chicago. He has made very notable contributions to our knowledge of the Far East through his connections with newspapers in this field. He has achieved no small fame as a lecturer for the American Historical Association and as the author of Red Men's Roads (1900) and The Old National Road, (1901). Professor Hulbert's fifteen volumn series, "Historic Highways" occupies a very singular place in the literature on American Economic History. Professor Hulbert was awrded the degree of Doctor of Letters.

PANTHER NINE WINS THREE GAMES OVER MEMORIAL WEEK END

Norwich Battered Into Submission By 16-3 Score.

COOK PITCHES GREAT GAME TO BEAT CADETS

Tufts Defeated 4-2; Clark Snowed Under 9 to 4.

Playing three games in as many days, Coach Hessler's Panther baseball nine covered itself with glory over the week-end by winning the entire trio. The return game with Norwich which was played Memorial Day became a route after the fourth inning and the home team trampled all over the Cadets to the tune of 16 to 3. Returning to the home diamond, the nine defeated Tufts 4 to 2 and then Clark University was taken over the bumps by a 9 to 4 score.

Middlebury 16-Norwich 3.

The annual Memorial Day game with Norwich was a walk-away for Coach Hessler's charges. "Red" Cook held the Cadets at bay throughout while the Panther swatsmen slammed Waining and Johnson for 18 bingles including a brace of doubles and a home run by Jacobs. After the smoke of battle had cleared, the Cadets had been trampled under a 16 to 3 barrage.

Scoring three runs in the fourth the Blue and White assumed a commanding lead, but to make things sure 14 men came to bat in the fifth and hit Waining and his relief hurler ,Johnson, for 9 runs. Another tally was brought over in the seventh and three more in the eighth to end the agony. The Cadets scored once in the third and twice in the fifth, but could not do much else. The score:

Middlebury 9-Clark 4.

In a game marred by errors and crabbing, Middlebury defeated Clark University Saturday by a 9 to 4 score. McDermott twirled for the home team and although touched for nine hits, kept them well scattered and the Worcesterites were only able to get one big inning, the seventh when they scored three runs.

The Panther took advantage of the many miscues by the Clark infield and by getting hits at opportune moments scored in the first, third, fifth and eighth.

St. Lawrence 2, Middlebury 5.

Middlebury wound up a very successful baseball season with a win over St. Lawrence last Saturday before a commencement crowd that filled the stands. St. Lawrence, worn down by a tough schedule, didn't look like the team that Middlebury met on April 27th, lacking their former punch at bat and turning in several misplays in the field. O'Brien, the big St. Lawrence hurler, pitched good ball in all innings but the third, when three bases on balls and two hits pushed across four runs for Middlebury. St. Lawrence scored their two tallies when Willis pushed through to cut off a double steal, and Kelley threw perfectly over the fence trying to throw out O'Brien between third and home, both runners scoring. Both teams hit lightly, Middlebury having a slight edge, with six to the New Yorker's four.

Rose Marchiano Wins Women's Tennis Title

Rose Marchiano '29 is the winner of the ladder tennis tournament conducted by the Women's Athletic Association. Miss Marchiano was tennis champion of the Women's College last fall. She was president of W. A. A. last year and has been very prominent in athletics and other college activities.

There were tyenty entries from all four classes in the tournament which has been played off during the last three weeks. The weather was exceptionally fine and the courts were in good condition, so there was little delay in running it off.

In the semi-finals, Freeborn '29 defeated Bachelder '30, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1. In the finals, Marchiano defeated Freeborn 6-1, 6-2.

equal periods of one hour each. The freshmen and unaffiliated transfers shall also be divided by the Interfraternity Council into eight sections, and each section shall be invited by the Interfraternity Council to visit in turn each fraternity house for one period.

3. The following two days, Wednesday and Thursday, shall be divided into four periods, as follows: 12 noon to 2:30 p. m.; 2:30 to 5:00 p. m.; 5:00 to 7:30 p. m. and 7:30 to 10:00 p. m. These periods shall be used for individual or group conferences at fraternity houses between fraternity representatives and reshmen and unffiliated transfers. The conferences for these periods shall be assigned by the Interfraternity Council. All communication between fraternity representatives and freshmen and unaffiliated transfers shall cease between 10:00 p. m. of Wednesday and Thursday and 10:00 a. m. of Thursday and Friday, respectively.

Communication in this and other articles of these rules shall mean conversation between a fraternity representative and a freshman or unaffiliated transfer concerning fraternities or fraternity membership.

4. The following day, Friday, shall be divided by the Interfraternity Council into as many periods as may be necessary for the purpose hereinafter noted and shall be used for further conferences between fraternity representatives and freshmen and unaffiliated transfers. The conferences shall be assigned by the Interfraternity Council so that if more than one fraternity desires a conference with a freshman or unaffiliated transfer, each fraternity shall have one period with him. All communication between fraternity representatives and freshmen or unaffiliated transfers shall cease between 10:00 p. m. Friday and 10:00 a. m. Saturday.

5. Formal invitations shall be mailed by individual fraternities after 10:00 p. m. Friday night and may be accepted at any time after chapel Saturday morning.

6. No fraternity member shall in any way interfere with any rushee keeping his asigned conferences.

7. No fraternity shall admit to or entertain in its house a freshman or unaffiliated transfer who at that particular time is assigned by the Interfraternity Coucil to conference with some other fraternity.

8. The number of men that may be pledged by any fraternity in any college year shall not be more than fifteen. College year in this article shall mean the period extending from the formal opening of college of one year to that of the next.

9. No fraternity shall invite any freshman or unaffiliated transfer to join its membership previous to the first conference on Wednesday, the third day of the rushing period as stated in Article 3.

10. No fraternity shall admit any freshman or unaffiliated transfer within its house between September 1st and the opening of the rushing period.

11. No fraternity may pledge any freshman or unaffiliated transfer who, having been pledged, breaks his pledge, until after the opening of the next college year.

12. A bond of $170.00 must be drawn upon the Addison County Trust Company in favor of the Interfraternity Council before June 1st of each year by each fraternity to run for the period of one year. For each infringement of the rushing rules, here stipulated, the fraternity found guilty shall forfeit $25.00 for each offense, excepting that a fraternity found guilty of pledging more than fifteen men during any college year (see article 8) shall forfeit the bond in its entire amount.

13. All alleged infractions of the rushing rules shall be brought before the Interfraternity Council. Thereupon, if the council so desires, it shall elect two of its members, one from the fraternity which has been charged with an infringement to act as defendant, and one to act as prosecutor, to present the case before the Faculty Advisory Board, whose decision shall be final on such charge of infraction.

14. The Interfraternity Council shall place a copy of these rules in the hands of all Freshmen and unffiliated transfers, as known on or before September 1st; in other cases immediately after information is obtained regarding a prospective freshman or unaffiliated transfer becoming a candidate for admission.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI WINS TROPHY

Winter Sports, won by Kappa Delta Rho, afforded much tight competition for contestants, and a great deal of amusement for alumni back for the mid-winter homecoming. A much larger number of entries than usual made the meet a great success.

Among other Intramural Sports, and their winners were:

Golf, won by Delta Kappa Epilson, runners-up, Chi Psi.

Handball, won by Kappa Delta Rho, runners-up, Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Track, won by Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Individual Handball tournament for College Championship, won by "Red" Cook '30, runner-up, Thad Jackson, 29.

The final standing in the competition for the Year Trophy is as follows:

Alpha Sigma Phi	615 pts.
Kappa Delta Rho	575 "
Delta Kappa Epsilon	570 "
Beta Kappa	330 "
Sigma Phi Epsilon	325 "
Delta Upsilon	290 "
Chi Psi	250 "
Neutral	200 "
Beta Psi	200 "
